

Farm and Garden Programs

In this post Coronavirus world, the threat of recession along with food safety, food security and the supply chain have become important concerns for the general public. Many people are now seeking to start their own vegetable gardens to safely and securely provide themselves and their families with fresh, naturally grown vegetables. Most are new to this endeavor and don't know where to begin.

To help those interested in attaining some level of self sufficiency via gardening, yeoman farmer Anthony Bracco has developed a selection of 6 programs demonstrate show how this can be achieved.

Programs:

Who We Are

Anthony Bracco and his family live in Cedar Grove NJ. While running his graphic design business for over 40 years, fourteen years ago he and his wife bought a 25 acre farm in the BLACK DIRT region of Pine Island, NY. Anthony, who was an avid gardener most of his life, had intended to be a hobby farmer on just an acre growing his family the cleanest produce possible using Non-GMO seeds, hand cultivation of weeds, old fashioned farm equipment, picking only when ready, and without chemicals, fertilizers, irrigation, pesticides, herbicides, glyphosate allowing the beautiful Black Dirt soil to naturally regenerate each season. These simple, time-honored farming techniques produced a shocking abundance of produce. Immediately that first season, Chefs began to come forward taking notice of the dramatic difference in taste.

So, after just one season, Bracco Farms was born out of the momentum of the growing food movement. The following Spring, Bracco Farms bought a tractor and so our story begins.

While still operating as a small family farm using these time honored farming techniques producing wonderful, clean, pure produce, Bracco Farms continues to grow its wide variety of market basket produce types for individual customers, families and chefs. The farm also supplies farm²table eateries, country clubs and its highly successful Fresh Vegetable Program primarily in New Jersey where the Bracco's live.

Bracco Farms maintains a transparent openness and invites any customer to come visit the farm and walk our fields with us.

Small Batch Produce

Small-batch producers infuse their product with a level of attention and passion that is impossible for large-scale farms to reproduce.

BRACCO FARMS FVP FRESH VEGETABLE PROGRAM

The Fresh Vegetable Program is an "A La Carte" way to purchase our superior produce without any weekly or monthly commitment and any up-front fees. A completely flexible alternative to the standard CSA model.

If you would enjoy receiving our all naturally grown produce, please visit our Fresh Vegetable Program page on our website for details.

Heirloom Varieties

We also grow first rate heirloom varieties of tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, zucchini, beans, onions, etc.

We actively seek out rare and interesting heirloom varieties from reliable natural non-GMO seed sources.
